Since Rob Manfred took over last year as Major League Baseball's 10th commissioner, his focus has been clear: the sport must face its waning bond with our young people or risk losing a generation of fans. Manfred has already implemented changes to the rules of the game itself to speed up the pace of play. Investments in technology have also been made at the league and franchise level - virtual reality, wearable gaming technology (the Motus baseball sleeve that measures stress on elbows and the Zephyr Bioharness that monitors the heart and respiratory speeds) and the recent announcement of Blast Motion as the official bat sensor technology that analyzes oscillations. However, at the player level, it's about social media. A recent MVPIndex report ranked the top 10 Major League Baseball players on social media, who are doing their part to engage the masses. Here's the All-Stars ranking...*

has been in effect since June 30, 2016, based on the player's overall reach and fan engagement on Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, YouTube and Google + Major League Soccer is following in the footsteps of the NBA and creating their own eSports league with players from real MLS teams. Organized in collaboration with EA Sports and FIFA 18, each team will be represented by a player who will compete against the other representatives of the team for the opportunity to play for the eMLS championship in the FIFA 18 Global Series playoff and, ultimately, in the FIFA eWorld Cup in 2018. We are excited to unveil eMLS, said Gary Stevenson of MLS in a statement announcing the new venture. This step forward in competitive gaming is a key component of our partnership with EA Sports to promote deeper engagement and connections between MLS supporters and millions of FIFA players around the world. We are honored to partner with MLS as part of the EA Sports FIFA 18 Global Series as we continue to help grow competitive gaming and football in North America, added Todd Sitrin of EA. We engage millions of football fans every day through FIFA and attract many others who view our competitions around the world. Each of the players representing the participating MLS teams will compete in the eMLS Cup at PAX East in Boston next April. Each team will use its own process to select its own player. Fans can follow their favorite football team as they go through the selection process, possibly including local tournaments, to identify and recruit the best talent in their area. The 19 participating clubs (out of 23) are Chicago Fire, Colorado Rapids, Columbus Crew SC, FC Dallas, Houston Dynamo, LA Galaxy, Minnesota United FC, Montreal Impact, New England Revolution, New York City FC, New York Red Bulls, Orlando SC, Philadelphia Union, Portland Timbers, San Jose Earthquakes, Seattle Sounders FC, Sporting Kansas City, Toronto FC and Vancouver Whitecaps FC. It is unclear whether these players will be paid by their sponsoring team, as if they were in the NBA 2K League. An MLS spokesperson told Polygon that teams can elect have multiple players to represent them, although only one player from each team can compete in eMLS events. The FIFA eWorld Cup is the culmination of the EA Sports international tournament and the eMLS Cup winner is guaranteed a slot in the Global Series playoffs in June. MLS also announced that more information about the structure of the league and the signatures of individual team players will be revealed in the coming weeks. Editors' recommendations

The invention of basketball is something of a sporting tradition: Canadian physician and priest James Naismith needed a way to keep kids in his school active and out of trouble throughout the Massachusetts winter of 1891. He came up with a game of kicking a soccer ball in a fishing basket. Your reasons for starting a basketball championship could be so simple: something fun and healthy to do, for adults in your community, say, or for young people in local churches. Or you may have higher ambitions, such as having serious high school players for college or raising money for charities. Whatever your motivations, make sure before there is enough interest to support the enterprise. Spread the word by posting an invitation on a social media site. Send a press release to regional newspapers. Get an interview on a local TV news cast. Organize an informal shootout to assess the enthusiasm and talent level of the local community. It's also a good idea to get solid advice on the legal and financial commitment involved, as both can be substantial. Your goals and response to your requests will help you make the many decisions that starting a championship entails. For example, what kind of legal entity will the league be? What office and field staff will you need? Where are you going to play? What rules will you use? Will you charge admission? Selling merchandise? The scope of your league will also give you an idea of how much it will cost to execute. Even if we plan a nonprofit that relies on donations and is volunteer staff, you'll still have expenses for insurance, paperwork, transportation, equipment, supplies, and more. Running a championship is a big responsibility. But if you're ready for the game, it's an opportunity to make a positive contribution to your community -- physically, socially and economically. Look what James Naismith started with a ball and a couple of fishing baskets. On the next page, we'll explore some of the major challenges you'll face and some options to address them. Page 2

Forget to score points on the field; the real glory in intramural sports lies in coming up with the best team name. After all, anyone can learn to hit a softball or beat a volleyball, but it takes a real talent to find a name that makes you laugh both the than the participants. The best intramural team names are not only specific to the sport, but also dotted with internal jokes, innuendo, and more than a bit of controversy. Of course, most colleges and universities with intramural leagues have rules in place to keep the team to become too explicit or offensive, but that doesn't stop students from pushing boundaries. Some colleges also offer extra points to teams that display truly innovative and eye-catching names, while a name that breaks the rules could result in penalties. With thousands of intramural teams taking part in sports ranging from flag football to bowling, there's no shortage of crazy names from teams that showcase the wild and vibrant nature of intramural sports. Read on to discover our 10 choices of fun intramural team names. Hi guys, If you like watching football/soccer videos online could you also tell me where I can find World Cup, Champions League, Premiere League and Bundesliga football videos? I would love to be able to watch all the football/football videos I like in one place on some dedicated football video streaming websites. So, if you have any suggestions about good places to go online and watch World Cup, Champions League, Premiere League and Bundesliga football/football videos, share them with me. Dream League Soccer 2020 is the last of the DLS franchise. Dream League Soccer is a fantasy football management game that you can play from your Android phone or tablet. They have built a major following over the years and the latest release of Dream League Soccer on January 7, 2020 brought with you many new features and updates. Customize your team's name and colors, recruit players, upgrade your stadium, train your team, choose your tactics, and head to the leaderboard to win that important trophy. You can play against the computer or real players. You don't need to be a football fan to enjoy Dream League Soccer 2020 The game's great rides are eye-catching, but not necessarily original or new. It's the details that separate games in this genre. Dream League Soccer 2020 has a long list of features. It still has many of the proven features including their FIFPro licensed players but now with over 3,500 players. If you know anything about football, you will recognize some of the players like Cristiano Ronald, Gareth Bale, Lionel Messi, Sergio Aguero and more. There are still many divisions (6 in total) and cup competitions (7) to overcome. You can still make numerous customizations for most aspects of your team (name, shirts, stadium, etc.). Connect with players from all over the world and send your highest scores to Google Play leaderboards. The controls are the same. The biggest difference between DLS 2019 and DLS 2020 is available in the graphic update. Everything looks a lot more real and the gameplay is smoother. The game has also been kept up to date with the latest players and some of the old bugs are now a thing of the past. The truth is that not a huge amount has changed, it's not bad and for a one-year update I think it exceeds expectations. Where can you run this program? You can play Dream League Soccer 2020 on any Android Android that uses Android 4.0.3 and versions not at the top. It can also be played on Apple devices such as iPhone and iPad. Apple users will need iOS 10.0 or later. If you are using your iPhone, this means that you will have to use the 5S model or higher. Is there a better alternative? There's a lot of competition for the top spot in football manager games. Based only on popularity, game number one should be PES (Pro Evolution Soccer). There are other much-loved games from the same ilk including Underworld Football Manager, Soccer Manager, Hatrick and more. However, there is not much from a technical point of view. You couldn't do a better football manager without including Dream League Soccer. Not everyone loves every aspect of the game. The fact that there are not enough German players or leagues in the 2020 version is disappointing. You are also forced to upgrade your stadium before moving on to the next season which costs a lot of virtual coins. Overall, though, Dream League Soccer 2020 scores very well. Should you download it? If you're looking for a fun game to play on your phone or tablet, Dream League Soccer 2020 is worth a try. It's free to download so you don't go wrong. Even in a popularity contest, Dream League Soccer would have ranked a lot having exceeded 40 million downloads among its 2019 and classic versions. Versions.
